National Dropout Prevention Month

October is National Dropout Prevention Month! Help spread the word by tweeting, emailing, or otherwise raising awareness that attaining a high school degree has lifelong positive consequences. The National Dropout Prevention Center, a part of Clemson University's College of Education, has created free posters, tent cards, and book marks that can be downloaded and distributed to your schools to help increase awareness and templates for press release and a PSA. There's even a dropout prevention message from 2016 National Championship Coach Dabo Sweeney that can be downloaded and used. All these free resources are available at <http://dropoutprevention.org/octoberresources/>
