WVU TECH Camp STEM 2018

June 17 - 22, 2018

Will you be a freshman, sophomore, junior or senior in high school this fall? Are you interested in science, technology, engineering or math? Do you like a challenge that includes hands-on experiments and problem solving? If you answered "yes," then WVU Tech's Camp STEM is waiting for you!

Camp STEM is a one-week summer program that shows you what engineering, math, science and technology are really all about.

Applications are open until May 1, 2018. You may apply by logging onto:

camps.wvutech.edu/camp-stem

Quality of Instruction

- Camp STEM is instructed by professors who are experts in the fields of engineering, math, science and technology.
- Professors will guide you through various experiments and provide detailed lectures and demonstrations.
- Upper-class WVU Tech students in STEM majors will be guides during your stay at Camp STEM.

For more information about Camp STEM, please contact:
Dr. Kimberlyn Gray

Frequently Asked Questions

- How much does Camp STEM cost?

Camp STEM cost $350, which covers all housing, meals, travel and activities for the week.

- Are scholarships available for Camp STEM?

Yes, both full and partial scholarships for Camp STEM. You must complete a scholarship application to be considered.

- Where will I be living?

Students will stay in WVU Tech's University Hall. Camp STEM counselors will be living in University Hall with our students and supervising meals, activities and projects.

- Who are the Camp STEM counselors?

Camp STEM counselors are WVU Tech students who are majoring in biology, chemistry, engineering, engineering technology or mathematics. Our counselors have shown academic excellence and have experience as camp counselors, resident assistants or with high school outreach activities. Counselors will live in the residence halls with students, eat with students in the Bear's Den, help students with engineering projects and talk to students about their majors and college experience.
